

2013 Pro Hillclimb Season Starts with a Roar

2013 Pole Position Raceway / Malcolm Smith Motorsports NAHA Pro Hillclimb Series Round 1
Sunnyside, WA, April 26-28, 2013

By Ron Dillon

Screaming, howling winds marked the start of the pro hillclimbing season as Washington's only professional motorcycle hillclimb, the Northwest Nitro Nationals, opened the 2013 hillclimb season, and was also the first round of the 2013 Pole Position Raceway / Malcolm Smith Motorsports North American Hillclimb Association (NAHA) Championship Series. Turnout for the third year event increased again, with 512 entries and 4,300 spectators attending from across the West.

The hill, located 30 miles east of Yakima and 15 miles north of Sunnyside, has a lot of history. First used in 1962, hillclimb events were run on it, off and on, up until 1999. It is a bit remote, but is serviced by two highways, and offers a number of different competition routes, all averaging around 800 feet which makes it the longest hill on the NAHA circuit.

Friday's competition included a multitude of trophy and semi-pro classes, and used a route that started with a short, very steep ramp, then rolled out a bit, giving riders time to build up some speed before hitting the last, increasingly steep, 400-foot section. The promoters, Jeff and Mellissa Snipes, spent additional money improving their hill watering system this year and put down over 250,000 gallons of water on the hill leading up to the event.

As expected, few trophy riders were able to get over the hill. Some especially impressive rides included E. Wenatchee, Washington's Kevin Logsdon, who won several classes, including the 125s for the second year in a row. Matt Morris, from Grants Pass, Oregon, had another stellar weekend, winning the 250 pro class and finishing second in the 250 altered and 250 stock divisions.

As usual, the pro minis turned heads and Idaho's Chase Seal and Oregon's Jaden Schnepf waged another war, with Schnepf finally coming out with the win. It is amazing that mini bikes can get over a hill that big and steep and it is encouraging to see a whole new generation of talented pro hillclimbers coming up.

Saturday's Competition resumed at around noon with pro qualifying and ran throughout the day and set the stage for the next day's pro finals. Gusty winds kept the Octane Addictions Freestyle Show grounded much of the time, but whenever the wind died down a bit, they put on an awesome freestyle show that kept the crowd engaged.

It would be an understatement to say that the weekend belonged to Utah's Jason Smith. He won the 450 pro main, and the 700 pro main, and the Open pro main, and wrapped that up by winning the side-by-side X-Climb. As far as the author is aware, this is the first time that anyone has ever won all four events in one weekend, and clearly Smith has taken his riding, and his fleet of pretty Yamahas, up to a whole new level. Also noteworthy was the outstanding riding of Northern California's Petey Krunich, who hadn't attended an NAHA event in a decade. He rode smooth, smart and fast, taking second in the 450 pro main, sixth in the 700 pro main and second in the Open pro main. Welcome back, Petey.

Other strong, fast and smooth riders included young Nick Beer who continues to improve, pulling off third in the Open pro main, third in the 700 pro main and tenth in the 450 main, no doubt making his dad, the legendary Dusty Beer, proud. California's Logan Mead also looked really good, taking eighth in the Open pro, fourth in the 700 pro, and third in both the 450 pro.

The organizer, Jeff Snipes, wants to thank first and foremost his wife Melissa, who labored long and hard with Jeff to make the event happen. Snipes Racing was also blessed with an excellent staff of workers and volunteers, as well as experienced members of both the OMPC, Port Angeles and Big Nasty, Idaho hillclimbs. Thanks also go out to the numerous sponsors, donators and partners who included RideNow Powersports, Coors Beer, Tom Denchel Ford, Crawford's Pro-Tec, Valhalla Vinyl Graphics, Alba's Excavating, the NAHA, Racer X, Malcolm Smith, Les Schwab Tires, RE Powell/VP Fuels, Speed Motorsports, Octane Addictions, Pyramid Printing, Townsquare Media, Sound Rider, Off-Road Vixens and all of the food and beverage vendors. And of course, the event could not happen without the help of the property owner, Kent Tramel and his family. And special thanks to John Nyboer.
